Let's do lunch.

ETHICS
Contractor

All of the contracts bids are in. One of the bidders would like to take you out to lunch. Ask yourself: 1) Is this a gift I can accept? 2) How would this look to an outsider? As a federal Government employee, you have been placed in a position of trust and are held to a high standard of ethical conduct.

For more information on the ethics laws regarding working with contractors, please contact your agency's ethics office.

Place Ethics Office Info Here

Public Service.

ETHICS
Public Service

Public service is a public trust. Every citizen deserves to have complete confidence in the integrity of the Federal Government. As public servants, we should adhere to the principles of ethical conduct.

For more information on your ethical responsibilities as a public servant, please contact your agency's ethics office.

Place Ethics Office Info Here

Before you walk out of the door...

ETHICS
Post-Employment

Getting ready to leave Government service? Do you know that certain laws and regulations still apply even after you walk out of the door? As a federal Government employee, you have been placed in a position of trust and are held to a high standard of ethical conduct.

For more information on the ethics laws regarding post-employment, please contact your agency's ethics office.

Place Ethics Office Info Here

Wearing too many hats?

ETHICS
Outside Activities

Applying for a second job? Interested in writing a book, volunteering in the community, or teaching a class? Your agency may require prior approval before engaging in certain outside activities. As a federal Government employee, you have been placed in a position of trust and are held to a high standard of ethical conduct.

For more information on the ethics laws regarding outside activities, please contact your agency's ethics office.

Place Ethics Office Info Here

Impartiality.

ETHICS

IMPARTIALITY

Would a reasonable person question your involvement with that project? How would your actions be interpreted on the evening news? As a federal Government employee, you have been placed in a position of trust and are held to a high standard of ethical conduct.

For more information on the ethics laws regarding impartiality, please contact your agency's ethics office.

Place Ethics Office Info Here

Happy Birthday and Retirement and Congratulations on the Wedding and…

ETHICS

Gift Acceptance

Thinking about giving a gift to someone in your office? Have you ever wondered if accepting that gift was the right thing to do? As a federal Government employee, you have been placed in a position of trust and are held to a high standard of ethical conduct.

For more information on the ethics laws regarding gift acceptance, please contact your agency's ethics office.

Place Ethics Office Info Here

Will you be there?

ETHICS

Widely Attended Gatherings

Have you been invited to attend an event related to your occupation? Wondering if you can attend? As a federal Government employee, you have been placed in a position of trust and are held to a high standard of ethical conduct.

For more information on the ethics laws regarding widely attended gatherings, please contact your agency's ethics office.

Place Ethics Office Info Here

Looking for a new job?

ETHICS

Seeking Employment

Applying to your dream job? Is that company affected by your Government work? As a federal Government employee, you have been placed in a position of trust and are held to a high standard of ethical conduct.

For more information on the ethics laws regarding seeking employment, please contact your agency's ethics office.

Place Ethics Office Info Here