

Lab tour p.15

< Previous Page | Next Page >

Higher efficiency separations are then carried out on active fractions using high performance liquid chromatography, which uses stainless steel columns filled with a silica-based stationary phase to achieve separations. Many components can be resolved in a single run. All fractions are tested to find the bioactive ones until pure compounds are identified.

---